

THE INTERIOR JOURNAL

STANFORD, KY., - APRIL 3, 1900

W. P. WALTON.

THIS promises to be a memorable week for the conspirators. A grand jury was empaneled in Judge Cantrell's court at Frankfort yesterday, upon which will devolve the duty of investigating the conspiracy that evidently originated in the executive building from which all doubt has been removed that the shot that killed Gov. Goebel was fired. The circumstances and the confessions all go to prove that Taylor was not only privy to the diabolical plot of assassination, but an active participant in it, and we believe that before the week is gone he will be indicted and in jail, from which he has too long been allowed to go free.

Let us reiterate the facts for the purpose of recalling them to the minds of those who may have forgotten them: On the morning of Jan. 30th as Senator Goebel was about to enter the Capitol building to attend to the duties imposed upon him, he was fired upon by a fiend ambushed in the office of the secretary of State, which is in the executive building, and received a wound from which he died the following Saturday night. Instead of using every effort to assist the local authorities in apprehending the assassin, Taylor, the acting governor, threw a cordon of bayonets around the building, which was packed with desperate characters brought to Frankfort for the purpose of intimidation and assassination, and for three days and nights prevented its search. Let it be remembered how quickly the local soldiers were on the scene, indicating very clearly that they were in readiness and that the shots were to be the signal for their appearance. In less than 12 hours he had every one of his partisan soldiers at the Capital and virtually put the city under martial law; adjourned the Legislature to London under the lying assertion that a state of insurrection existed and then chased the body over the city to prevent it from meeting and doing the work the people had elected it to do. He defied the courts, suspended the writ of habeas corpus and did other acts of treason and usurpation that put to blush any former usurper.

Then when sufficient evidence had been obtained to warrant the arrest of Caleb Powers and Policeman Davis, who were in the executive building, he furnished them a company of soldiers, had them disguised, supplied them with pardons and tried to spirit them away to his loyal mountain fastnesses. These circumstances form a chain of evidence sufficient to convict and hang Taylor, even if his guilt were not so fully corroborated by the confessions of Golden, Culton and others. "Call out the soldiers" demanded one of the conspirators of him, when it had been arranged to murder a sufficient number of the legislators, including Goebel to make the body republican. "My God," Taylor exclaimed, "you fellows must do something first, I can get the soldiers out quick enough." True to his word he did have them there almost the same moment that something was done, Gov. Goebel hardly having been lifted from the story walk before they were there. Since then he has kept his cowardly carcass, holding a basely guilty conscience, surrounded by soldiers to guard and protect him from the consequences of his crime.

Does an innocent man act as he has? Doesn't a guiltless man, confident of no wrong doing, court instead of avoid a full investigation? Was not Taylor to be the chief beneficiary by the death of Goebel? Didn't his enemy think that he had to be made away with that day in order to stop the contest for the governorship before a vote could be taken? Hasn't everything that Taylor has done before and since the assassination of Gov. Goebel proved his guiltiness? Every honest man, republican or otherwise, is bound to answer these questions in the affirmative and say that he is accessory before and after the fact. The burden of proof is now on the accused. Let him show his innocence or let his life pay the forfeit. It is well enough to punish Powers and the other accomplices in the most dastardly crime of the century, but what will their necks avail, if the head and centre of the damnable conspiracy goes free?

The average republican is not too good for any questionable act, it seems, but we are surprised and saddened by the confession of guilt that Charles Finley's flight indicates. He is said to be in Indianapolis under the protecting wing of a sheriff-jailer, in a State whose governor will not recognize a democratic requisition for him. This looks bad for Finley, of whom we had hoped better things. His acts do not show a clear conscience, but condemn and damn him in the estimation of those who would fain believe him guiltless. Let him appear for investigation or be captured at all hazards.

"LET no innocent man suffer," shriek the organs of assassination. No danger of that. Their only really concern is that it begins to look like no guilty man will escape.

It seems to be the finding of the Fayette grand jury that too many "new woman" cooks have spoiled the State House of Reform broth. Will old he-cook Walton save his bacon by prompt confession?—Louisville Times. Old Adam Logan would have us follow the precedent laid down by the first man, which was "put it all on the women."

but we are not a later day representative of the old rascal in that particular and are willing to bear our part of any blame or censure that may attach to the building or management of the House of Reform. We are free, however, to admit that whatever of credit is due for either belongs almost exclusively to the women, who have had more time to strive and have striven harder than the men. And we are absolutely confident that there is nothing in the finding of the Fayette grand jury, which to even a casual observer, must have something back of it. So far as the writer, who is one of the six trustees, can judge, the buildings are unusually well constructed. With boys coming in every day the Negro accommodations are a little limited now, but the building for them will be ready in a month. The trustees have done all in their power to hurry up the contractors, except to take the contracts from them. The latter was considered by the board but such action would have greatly delayed, instead of advancing the work. The State is protected by a good bond and $25 a day forfeit, which the trustees have held for final adjudication. We know the contractors have labored under many difficulties in the way of getting materials and otherwise and that they are paying more for material now than they get, and have therefore applied the golden rule to them, but the State will not and shall not lose by it. An honorable expert will be bound to pronounce every thing first-class and feeling confident of this, the trustees can afford to suffer for a season the contumely of an idiotic grand jury, some of whom doubtless wouldn't know a fire escape from a hole in the ground.

It does us good to observe that Mr. Watterson has swung fully into the column again, from which we begged him with tears in our eyes and in pit eous tones in 1896 not to withdraw. He announces that the Courier Journal will abide the result no matter what it be and will support the nominee of the Kansas City convention, who he says will be Bryan by acclamation, the gathering being simply a ratification meeting. "And" he adds, "if he can hold the vote he got in 1896, he will be elected, for at least a million of the gold democrats who voted against him in 1896, the money difference out of the way, will vote for him in 1900." We love to read such words of comfort from one who used to be our patron saint of democracy and for whose opinion we have always had the highest respect even when not agreeing with him. With the Courier Journal and its matchless editor with us what care we if a certain disreputable sheet in Louisville and subsidized ones in Lexington and other places be against us. Walk up, Mr. Watterson, get the new suit of clothes, put the ring on your finger and eat the fatted calf and drink and be merry.

THE old saying that when a man once gets printer's ink on his fingers he is never entirely able to eradicate it, is again proven true, this time by Mr. F. J. Campbell, one of the originators and founders of the great moral engine that is telling this story. Editor L. E. Hunt, of the Progressive Home Journal, of Somerset, announces that Mr. Campbell has purchased a half interest in that paper and that on or before July 1 he will assume the active business management of the paper and its job office, acting as assistant editor till that time. The arrangement is a first-rate one for the P. H. Journal, and Mr. Hunt shows great anxiety in the selection of a partner. Mr. Campbell is a facile, vigorous and incessive writer and will make the paper even better than it now is. We welcome "Ceph." to the fold again very heartily, especially since he seems to have sought pardon for the crime of '96.

In citing instances of shocking wrongs committed "under the forms of law," Col. Breckinridge strangely omits that famous Washington case of which he was the maliced and mutilated victim.—Louisville Times. Why do some people try always to be unpleasant? Hasn't the colonel paid the $15,000 assessed against him in favor of the girl he had wronged and hasn't he since been hiding under the log cabin to avoid harsh criticism? Do let the erring and repentant sinner rest.

THE secretary and treasurer estimates that by the end of June of this year the surplus of government receipts over expenditures will aggregate $60,000,000. He thinks that the present rate of taxation might, in consequence, be reduced to some extent but his suggestion will fall on deaf ears. The republicans want to pile up money in the treasury to squander.

THE Lexington Leader sent an expert to the Houses of Reform, who states that there are no grounds for the charges made by the grand jury of Fayette that bad materials have been used in the buildings.

VOTES of confidence in ex-Rev. and ex-Auditor Sweeney by people who do not know the facts, amount to little. We may say that we can not believe a preacher guilty of conspiracy to assassinate but that would prove nothing. Culton, according to the Cincinnati Post, bears testimony to the contrary.

"I KNOW enough to hang Taylor and damn the republican party," said Youtsey to James Andrew Scott and he is going to tell it too. The pot is boiling.

THE LATEST.

LOUISVILLE April 3, 9 A. M.—Senator S. B. Harrel writes an open letter, published in The Dispatch, to Gov. Beckham, calling him a political ingrate and says Beckham "refused to let me (Harrel) name a man for the pettiest office in your gift." He claims credit for making Beckham governor and threatens to run in opposition to him this fall.

Taylor failed to leave Morgantown as was expected: a friend claiming that they heard a warrant had been issued for him.

The republicans have put a Gatling gun in the executive building and have ordered food from Cincinnati, as if preparing for a siege.

Julius Fleischman, millionaire republican, was elected mayor of Cincinnati. C. D.

FRANKFORT, APRIL 2.—The grand jury as empaneled and charged in Judge Cantrell's court stands eight democrats, two republicans, a Brownie and a populist. Several republicans refused to serve.

"Tallow Dick" Combs, of Lee county, was placed in jail here at 3 o'clock. He was brought in by Jailer of Lee and the Chief of Police of Winchester.

Damages in the sum of $500 each against the usurpers of the minor State offices were asked in a petition filed in court by the democratic officials.

About Conspirators and Assassins.

Postmaster Baker, of Louisville, and L. J. Crawford, of Newport, went Policeman Davis' bail and he breathes the fresh air again.

The Morgantown militia is being prepared for any emergency and is busy drilling. It is expected that it will become Taylor's body-guard wherever he goes.

Patrolman William Looney was indicted for assault and battery on Caleb Powers when he was arrested at Lexington while attempting to escape in disguise.

The court of appeals, with all the judges sitting, heard the governorship case at Louisville yesterday. Judge W. S. Pryor and Lewis McQuown spoke for the democrats and Gov. W. O. Bradley and Helm Bruce for the republicans. Each speech was limited to 1 1/2 hours and a decision is expected tomorrow.

It is reported at Morgantown that W. S. Taylor is planning to go to London, where he might be safe from arrest should an indictment be returned against him by the grand jury which was empaneled at Frankfort yesterday. He has sold all his property at Morgantown and has sent an agent through the county collecting notes.

The story sent out from Winchester that Attorney James Andrew Scott, of Frankfort, had proposed to the relatives of H. E. Youtsey to give him a portion of the reward money for a confession of the details of the conspiracy to assassinate Gov. Goebel, called forth the statement from Judge Lewis, president of the commission, that no private citizen has authority from the commission to offer rewards for confessions of alleged accessories. "Not a cent of the $100,000 has yet been spent, and I think you can safely say that not a dollar of it will be paid for confessions."

LAND AND STOCK.

A. C. Dunn bought in Rockcastle a jack for $150.

A Mercer county man has 46 ewes with 106 lambs.

The prize hog of Orange county, N. Y., weighed 981 pounds.

C. T. Sandidge has decided to stand Preston at $15 instead of $20.

Beazley Bros. bought three mares of a Lebanon party at $90 to $100.

John L. Helm, of Hardin, sold 90 1,300 pound cattle to J. Weihs at $4c.

Four car loads of choice timothy hay for sale. S. W. Burk, Bryansville.

E. E. Patterson will stand his fine stallion, Oklahoma, and jack, Bud, at his place near town. See ad.

S. Morgan bought of A. J. Thompson a bunch of extra good hogs at 4 3/5, of J. C. Hays 92 at 3 1/2 and of E. L. King 29 at 4c.

Sales of 100 barrels of corn at $2 25, 100 hogs at 42 and 400 lambs for June 15 to July 15 delivery at 42 are reported in the Winchester Democrat.

Dr. Wyatt Letcher has sold the Tom Adams farm of 220 1/2 acres, in Garrard, to Mrs. Nannie W. Owens at $60, possession to be given at once.—Advocate.

Farmers, who have corn, are still holding it at $2.50 at the crib and millers and distillers are compelled to get their supplies from the city at less money.

MULES TO WORK—I have a lot of good, strong, young mules that I will let out to be worked until Aug. 1. Apply to E. W. Lee, on the Gran. Cecil farm, on Salt river, Boyle county.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

GARDENS plowed on short notice. Beazley Bros.

THE Misses Straub are opening up a splendid line of well selected and beautiful millinery, and invite the ladies to call and examine it.

MORRIS FRED, of the Exchange, is figuring on building a flouring mill here and may buy the property where his Exchange is located.

IN the quarterly court yesterday, Hon. F. F. Bobbitt got a verdict against Peter Waddle for $49 for trespass on the lands of Wm. Landgraf.

BESIDES four other leading fire insurance companies, Agent R. B. Mahony has the agency for the Continental in the counties of Lincoln, Boyle and Casey.

ALL water and light bills paid at the office of the company before the 10th of April are subject to a discount of 2 per cent. G. L. Penny, secy. and treasurer.

THE children are all cordially invited to call at my shop Saturday afternoon April 7, where they will each be presented with an Easter souvenir. Annie P. Phillips.

MISS LUCIE BEAZLEY has returned from the cities and will have her Easter opening of spring and summer millinery, Monday and Tuesday, April 9 and 10, to which she invites the ladies.

OUR Goebel monument fund was at last reported: $99 50 S. M. Helm 50 W. J. Snodgrass, Gordon, Kas. 1 00 J. H. Daigh 20 L. C. Gooch 25

NEW MILLINERY STORE.—Miss Nannie Vandever went to Louisville a few days since to buy a stock of goods for the millinery store she and her sister, Mrs. Mattie Kirby, will open in the store-room occupied by the post-office.

CLAIMS.—Yesterday Representative Gilbert introduced the following claims: W. G. Dunn, of Garrard county, $1,400; heirs of C. L. Carter, Lincoln county, $500; James M. Crawford, Rockcastle county, $3,100; E. B. Caldwell, Wayneburg, $1,250, Mrs. Virginia H. King, Lincoln county, $1,500.

ACQUITTED.—Jailer G. W. DeBord got a letter from Henry Pennington in Leslie county, this morning, telling him of his acquittal. He laid in jail here for nearly a year under a life sentence for murder, but the court of appeals reversed it. W. B. Hansford, late of Crab Orchard, defended him.

CHURCHES AND PREACHERS.

Bishop Morrison will preach at Perryville May 17 and at Danville May 18. Rev. G. M. Moore, of Lexington, is assisting Rev. George W. Bowling at the colored Baptist church, which has 25 "mourners" to date.

The C. W. B. M. will meet in the lecture room of the Christian church Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. We are asked by Miss Ann Shanks to state.

HUSTONVILLE.

Hustonville has the most flourishing Christian Endeavor Society in Central Kentucky.

Doc Drye has a half dozen of the finest horses in this section which he has gathered up to sell.

The Misses Adams will have their opening of spring and summer millinery Friday and Saturday, 6th and 7th. A frequent visitor to our town suggests that we change the name of our city to Hospitality. Don't you think it would be an appropriate name?

The stove pipe fell in the Christian church Sunday morning while Sunday school was in progress, and a joint of it struck Cashier J. W. Hooker on the nose, cutting an ugly gash.

Mrs. Helen Huffman is keeping for Ed Hopper, the spectacles worn by the late Gov. Letcher, a relative of the clever secretary of the Latonia race course. They have in them about $25 worth of gold and the lenses are the finest made in that day.

W. C. Greening has broken ground on the lot next to James Frye's for a building to be used as a grocery and supply store which he will run himself. If we had a few more enterprising citizens like Mr. Greening, our town would double its population before 1901.

Alonzo Cassell, formerly of this place, but later of Somerset, has leased the Hustonville & Green River Valley Telephone line for a term of three years and took possession April 1. He has had years of experience in the telephone business and will keep the line in ship shape.

Misses Anna Reid and Lou Hooker returned Sunday morning from a delightful visit to the Misses Cook at Nashville. J. G. Weatherford, of Milldale, is with his brothers, Messrs. W. D. and G. D. Weatherford. Bob Bosley was here Sunday as usual. Harry B. Hooker and George L. Carpenter, of Danville, spent Sunday with the family of Mr. J. W. Hooker. Mrs. Kate Culbertson and daughter, Miss Ruth, of Covington, were guests of Mrs. H. R. Camnitz and family.
